

Speech & Language Therapeutic Consultation

The goal of Speech & Language Therapeutic Consultation is for all people to have the ability to communicate wants and needs in a functional and socially acceptable way. Our highly qualified speech-language pathologists assess each person's unique communication needs, including the need for assistive technology or AAC devices. Once needs are identified, our clinicians work with the individual and their team to develop a treatment package to meet their needs, including direct therapy and consultation or coaching.
